East European Journal of Psycholinguistics is an international double-blind peer-reviewed academic periodical published semiannually. The aim of the journal is to provide a forum for scholars to share, foster, and discuss globally various new topics and advances in different fields of modern psycholinguistics. The journal publishes original manuscripts covering but not limited to the following theoretical and applied fields of psycholinguistics:

- Bilingualism
- Clinical Psycholinguistics
- Cognitive Linguistics
- Cognitive Psychology
- Discourse Analysis
- Forensic Linguistics
- First and Second/Foreign Language Acquisition
- Neurolinguistics
- Pragmatics
- Psychology of Language and Speech
- Sociolinguistics
- Translation Studies

The Editors also take an interest in:

- Brief reports where authors present either preliminary data or ideas with theoretical background of the research; the preliminary research paper should be at least 4–6 page long;
- Book review articles;
- International conference calls
- Announcements

Contributions can be submitted in English (priority), Ukrainian, Russian.

ETHICS STATEMENT

The author who submits an article to the journal explicitly confirms that the paper presents a concise, accurate account of the research performed as well as an objective discussion of its significance. A paper should contain sufficient detail and references to public sources of information. Fabrication of data is an egregious departure from the expected norms of scholarly conduct, as is the selective reporting of data with the intent to mislead or deceive, as well as the theft of data or research results from others. Authors must obtain permission for use of any previously published materials from the original publisher. Plagiarism constitutes unethical scholarly behaviour and is unacceptable.

All co-authors share equal degree of responsibility for the paper they co-author. Submitting the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently is unethical and unacceptable.

By acknowledging these facts the authors bear personal responsibility for the accuracy, credibility, and authenticity of research results described in their papers.
